Panathlon International – Ethical Plaques

1. Every Panathlon Club must identify through a proposing member, schools, gyms, sports clubs, sports associations, public entities, etc. that are worthy as well as supporters of Panathlon International's ethical principles and values.
2. It will be the Club's responsibility to carry out official events and the posting of the same so as to highlight said initiatives, with a single obligation to document the event sending relative texts and photos both to the District President and the Area Governor and to Panathlon International's General Secretariat to oversee its monitoring and distribution through publication on Panathlon International's website and social media.
3. Plaques made in aluminium, will need to be periodically monitored so that they are always in good condition and maintain their visibility and dignity.
4. It is to be underlined that this opportunity doesn't just represent displaying them but the plaques, other than having a certain intrinsic value, will be a universal recognition of sports principles and loyalty in competition, social integration, the search for a balanced sustainability of sports practice and performance, fighting against doping, promoting fair play and of rejecting violence.
5. Costs:
 - 1 Kit – 10 free Ethical Plaques (for clubs that haven't yet used the kit)
 - Additional 10 Ethical Plaques: 8 Euros each
 - For purchases above 10 Ethical Plaques and up to 25 (from 22 to 25) 7 Euros
 - For even higher purchases (from 26 to 50) 6 Euros
 - For even larger quantities, tailor made evaluations can be made

Charter of Duties of Parents in Sport®

- It is up to my children to choose their favourite sports entirely on their own, without being conditioned in any way by me.
- It is my duty to check that the sports they practice are functional to their upbringing and to their psychophysical development, harmonising the time they devote to sports with their school commitments and with a serene family life.
- With the exception of training activities, I will avoid any strenuous competitive sports activities for my children until they reach the age of 14, favouring fun and recreational sports.
- I will follow them unobtrusively, with their consent, if this is necessary in order to help them enjoy a balanced relationship with their sports.
- I will not ask my children's coaches for anything that is not useful for their growth and not commensurate with their merits and their potential.
- I will tell my children that that, in order to be good sportsmen and women and feel happy in life, it is not necessary to become champions.
- I will remind them that defeats, too, help them grow because they serve the purpose of making them become wiser.
- I will point out to them the values of Panathlon as an ethical footing for facing up to proper experience in sports.
- When they come home, I will not ask them whether they have won or lost but rather whether they feel rewarded. I will not ask how many goals they scored or how many were scored against them, or how many records they have beaten, but whether they enjoyed themselves.
- I want to see my reflection in their eyes every day and find the smile of my own youth.

The Panathlon Charter on the Rights of the Child in Sport

All children have the right:

- To practise sports
- To enjoy themselves and to play
- To live in a healthy environment
- To be treated with dignity
- To be trained and coached by competent people
- To take part in training that is adapted to their age, individual rhythm and competence
- To match themselves against children of the same level in a suitable competition
- To practise sport in safe conditions
- To rest
- To have the opportunity to become a champion, or not to be a champion.
